Traffic threshold

To help you to control the cost of your communication you can set your own traffic threshold. The threshold is defined as the maximum number of bytes sent per message, day, week or month. If you choose not to define your own threshold it will automatically be set to 5 kilobytes per message.

Size	_____ kilobytes per...	<input type="checkbox"/> Message	<input type="checkbox"/> Day	<input type="checkbox"/> Week	<input type="checkbox"/> Month
------	------------------------	----------------------------------	------------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------------

Note: If you choose to define your traffic threshold per message, the maximum size is 32 kilobytes.
